

NO PAY; NO PAPER.

After our Grand Gift Distribution we are coming down to a strictly HARD CASH BASIS. We shall send the Times only for the money. If the Times is worth anything it is worth paying for; and if any one does not think it worth paying for, all right. The MANNING TIMES will go to no one after Nov. 30th, except for the cash or its equivalent. That's business, and we mean it.

HASTY LEGISLATION.

We do not propose making suggestions to our legislators, though there are several changes in the laws we should like to see made. But we wish to endorse a bill, which we think was introduced at the last session, and one which has the support of several of the most prominent senators and representatives. It is a bill to limit the introduction of bills to the 15th of December. Then the legislature is to take a recess till the 15th of January, when the members will reassemble and legislate on those bills only. Such a law would entirely remove any cause for the charge of hurried legislation. The members would have the bills to take home with them, to examine for a month, and to consult with their constituents. We sincerely hope this bill will become a law. It is no credit to the State to have such a rush at the close, and when the legislature adjourns, nine out of ten do not know what has been done.

Florence wishes to be a city, and will apply to the legislature for a charter.

Rev. W. D. Kirkland has been re-elected editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, for the next four years. Mr. Kirkland is an able writer, and as an editor is second to none.

Mr. Louis Appelt kindly consented to write up our local page this week, and he has succeeded admirably. We are personally under great obligations to him for his valuable services.

South Carolina Conference.

The South Carolina Conference convened in Camden, Nov. 20th, Bishop J. C. Keener presiding. We give the following as of interest to our people:

More than thirty young men came up for admission, but some did not pass the committee on examination. Others were not received because they were adjudged not suitable persons for traveling Methodist preachers. The following were admitted: W. S. Stokes, A. B. Watson, J. R. Copeland, Geo. W. Davis, Wm. H. Hodges, Albert H. Best, J. Marion Rogers, John Manning, Rufus A. Child, John A. White, J. S. Abercrombie, E. D. Mounzon, John W. Shell. The committee of trial in the case of the Rev. Samuel J. McLeod made their report announcing that he had been deposed from the ministry and expelled from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The charges against Mr. McLeod were falsehood and slander, and they were sustained by the committee of trial.

The report of the publishing committee on the Southern Christian Advocate, Columbia, S. C., showed that that journal was never more prosperous. The Conference then entered into the quadrennial election for an editor for the Advocate. A ballot was taken, and the Rev. W. D. Kirkland, D. D., was re-elected to serve for the next four years. He has given great satisfaction to the Methodists of the State, and his re-election to-day is a mark of the great confidence the Conference reposes in him.

The following delegates were elected to the General Conference: Clerical delegates: A. Coke Smith, W. D. Kirkland, S. B. Jones, J. O. Willson, R. D. Smart, S. Lander. Alternates: J. M. Boyd, W. C. Power.

Lay delegates: James H. Carlisle, Spartanburg; Wm. M. Connor, Charleston; J. W. Fueller, Easley; A. C. Dibble, Orangeburg; L. D. Childs, Columbia; W. L. Gray, Laurens. Alternates: A. B. Stucky and J. R. Westervelt.

Anderson, Laurens, Rock Hill, and Florence were nominated as the place for holding the next session of the Conference. The city of Anderson was selected and the vote was made unanimous.

The appointments were read Monday. We have space this week only for the Sumter District.

J. S. Beasley, presiding elder. Sumter—E. T. Hodges. Sumter Circuit—W. L. Wait. Lynchburg—E. O. Watson. Wedgefield—J. W. Kilgo. Bishopville—J. L. Shuford. Santee—H. M. Mood. Foreston—J. C. Bissell. The following appointments will also interest our people: R. N. Wells, Trinity (Charleston.) J. S. Porter, Black Swamp. S. P. H. Ellwell, Batesburg. W. B. Duncan, Cartersville. A. J. Stokes, P. E., Marion District. T. E. Wannamaker, supernumerary, Orangeburg. J. W. Shell, Clifton. G. W. Gathin, Kings Mountain.

ROLL OF HONOR.

To-morrow is the day! At 103 o'clock the distribution will begin. Money for subscriptions will be received up to that hour. We publish the sixth batch of names this week, 108 in all. A very good showing for one week for a country paper. Of these 18 are new subscribers.

No Pay, No Paper.

After our Grand Gift Distribution we are coming down to a strictly HARD CASH BASIS. We shall send the Times only for the money. If the Times is worth anything it is worth paying for; and if any one does not think it worth paying for, all right. The MANNING TIMES will go to no one after Nov. 30th, except for the cash or its equivalent. That's business, and we mean it.

How to Make Money.

Having had samples of cotton from other gins compared with those from ours by competent judges, we can now assure our patrons at least 1-4 cent per pound more for their cotton than any other gin in the State. We would like those who will not patronize us to come around and see how much better their neighbors get their cotton ginned than they do. If they can show us any fault in our work we will be glad to know it. It will be to the interest of any one to see us before ginning elsewhere, as we are offering special inducements for this and next month; also will pay more for cotton seed than any one else, or will exchange the meal for them. Come and see us.

C. R. & W. S. HARVIN.

Letter from Panola.

PANOLA, Nov. 19.—You will not fail to get copy this week. The gala week and the State fair must necessarily occupy so much space in your paper that there will not remain a single column for one of your correspondents. However, I want to write some things of a general way, to tell what I saw, how this portion of the county stands, what improvements and measures are laid by the generality of our people. You have no idea of the condition of the roads. It requires muscle, nerve, and determination to keep these roads in good, passable condition. This portion of the county borders Wrights Bluff, known as the river roads. It is one of the most business portions of the county. Mr. David Levi is the champion merchant, shipping two thousand bales of cotton annually. It has been a source of pleasure to him to deal fairly, honestly in his business transactions, which has made him friends among white and colored. He never was known to distress one of his customers.

Mr. W. S. Holladay, too, has rapidly built up a great trade, from his square dealing and honest figures. Commencing a poor boy with nothing but energy, he has from all appearances established a reputation worthy of all such young men. His store is manned by Maj. Caraway, who knows the position of a clerk, ready to please, who always meets you with a kind word. Mr. Holladay is a large successful planter, managing this part of the business himself.

It's always a pleasure for your correspondent to visit the cross roads at Jeff Davis's. How it pleases me to see the prosperity of boys whom I have known all my life. This is also a business place. Jeff has that push about him that few young men have. I think his farm and business stand decidedly one of the best located. The whole seems to be on a boom; his gins are kept busy. Then there are other enterprises laudable, worthy of mention. Mr. J. E. Tennant has his evaporator in full blast, boiling some as good molasses as you would like to see. Mr. Davis called my attention to the pulp, and thinks if manufactured it would make good covering for cotton. There are some good planters in this section as you will find anywhere. The Dingles (father and sons), Billups, Carrigan, and others, who give special care to their farms.

I would not forget to note other lines of improvement where the W. & S. Railroad passes. Davis is well growing into a town. Mr. C. M. Davis has his store filled with general merchandise. Mr. W. H. Treecott, his clerk, is not only pleasant and affable in manner, but seems to be the man in the right place.

I gave Summerton a call. You have no idea of its vast improvement. To say the least I predict for it one of the handsomest inland towns in this State. It has the vim, with some of the best men in the county to advance its progress.

I visited Pinewood, where you can always spend happy moments to while away your time. I have had occasion to write of these people before. They do not build pine knot fires; this is not their habit. In patience they possess their souls—Pinewood richly deserves praise—a happy people, good livers, plenty to eat for man and beast—a growing town. Mr. J. W. Weeks has a fine building, which adds much to the upper end of the town. Mr. Ben Griffin also has built him a handsome residence on Church street. Dr. McLaurin's store, also C. M. Griffin's, on Main street, is stocked with everything in the line of merchants. The shops of Mr. Burket on Main street have every appearance of turning out good workmanship. A night with Mr. J. D. Childers refreshed a tired traveler. You find in him all that is gentlemanly, hospitable, and kind. Then Mrs. C. spurs no pains to make you comfortable. They are a happy couple, no children to annoy or perplex them. The entire town and surrounding community smacks of progressiveness. The high school taught by Miss Keels is prospering finely. She is said to be quite an accomplished lady.

In my rambling notes I must not forget Silver. I would do injustice to Silver if I did not give it a place in this picture. Silver is bright, very illuminating—not a whit behind the rest of her apostles. Another new store has been opened; Mr. A. W. Thunes, Jr., hangs out his shingle. You may look for advertisements. Silver is the place for capitalists to invest their money. Dr. A. J. Briggs, one of our most skillful young physicians, who does a large successful practice, anticipates building and opening up a drug store at Silver.

Painful Boils.

About three years ago I was troubled with poison in my blood, very irritating and painful boils breaking out all over my body. For two years I suffered with them, trying all sorts of remedies, and doctor's prescriptions without avail. Becoming disgusted with doctors, and medicines I had used up to this time, I concluded to try S. S. S. and the result was far beyond my expectations. A few bottles left me in better health than I had been since childhood. I consider S. S. S. the only medicine that will thoroughly purify poisoned blood.

A Valuable Tonic.

I have used Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) with good results. As a tonic, it is valuable; as a blood purifier, it is reliable.

Keep it as a Family Medicine.

Mr. J. J. Bradley, writes from Harrison, Ga., under date of September 22, 1889. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has been freely used by my family with the best and happiest results. A half dozen bottles entirely relieved my sister of a severe case of scrofula. My wife has frequently found her blood purified and her health improved by S. S. S. I also had a scrofulous affection that has been entirely cured by taking a few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.).

[For The Times.]

"Trial by Battle."

"Trial by battle" is an old law which was established by that necessity which we think demands it to-day. The church of God and the temple of human justice differ one from the other very widely indeed. The one is perfect, whilst the other is not, and can never be. "Trial by battle" is nothing more or less than duelling. And duelling is but the laying of one's life upon the altar of honor, influenced rather by pride than by malice, and cannot we think be murder, as honor and pride only represent self-respect, whilst malice is one-sided and criminal, and represents murder. Governments we think should never transcend their respective bounds. When they legislate against malice they should pursue that line of legislation only, and not attribute to malice that which we are forced to perceive can only result from wounded pride and insulted honor. The unwritten law of necessity governs, guides, and shapes all of our just wars, and also our duels and self-defences. How then can any nation justly punish her citizens for obeying the great law of necessity? If nations have the right to obey the unwritten law of necessity, individuals, we think, should enjoy the same privilege. What is criminal in the one we think is certainly criminal in the other. Their tendencies are the same, and their objects are identical. The strength of a nation does not entitle her to more justice than the weakness of the citizen has a right to expect and demand. What high toned man would wish to be such a loney as to run to our courts for protection? Let refined justice stand firm upon the field of honor as did our great McDuffie. South Carolina is our common mother, but shall we be forced to run to her whenever one of our toes are tramped upon for redress? No! never! Malice is a base principle, and its possessor should be severely punished. Wounded pride is honorable, and we think should be allowed outside of our courts to demand redress. What! punish a man whose only fault is that he is brave and noble enough to give honorable satisfaction to another, who is equally as brave and noble? What! punish him for putting his life in jeopardy only for his honor, when his State and country would be proud indeed to have him do the same for us? What is his honor not as dear to him as is that of his State and country to them?

"Trial by battle" we think is not only a freeman's proud right in all free governments, but that it is perhaps one of the best peacemakers in the world. When men fight for their honor none are involved but the principals themselves, and such a law cannot fail to teach the great importance of that which is due from man to man. It also has a tendency to keep down civil convulsions, as honorable men are always more than willing to fight for principle as well as for honor. It would make men more careful in debate, and would wonderfully guide the pen, and put a "new song" in the mouths of the indiscreet. We would scorn to be popular at the expense of "the rights of man." A duel is a combat between two men, provided both parties believe they are in the right, and they should be sworn before they are allowed to fight. If one (or both of them) believe they are in the wrong of course there is malice, and murder naturally follows as to one or both, as the case may be. Honor does not sanction wrong; neither does the law of necessity. The man who would obey the law of necessity should also bow to the rule of honor. Courts of honor should decide nothing at all, but act only as peace makers. Honor demands that principals should not draw others into their troubles, except for the peace of the State.

We also hold that no man has a legal right to engage at all in a duel, in violation of the law against it. Obedience to law does not sanction such a course, however much necessity may demand it. David acted rather as a Christian soldier than as a duelist. No honorable man would insist upon unfair distance or unusual weapons. Fair play or "the rule of right" actuates and governs all men who wish to be just in their thoughts, feelings, and actions. All nations have the undoubted right to enact what laws they may wish to have, whether such laws harmonize with the rule of wrong or "the rule of right." But such right is just only when might follows "the rule of right." When it adheres to the rule of wrong the result is tyranny. It is quite impossible to have free, just, and merciful governments when men are intrusted with too much power. Then even little fish will be taught to poison themselves for the sake of their bread and butter, as the very best friends of civilization and progress! why there is not a civilized nation upon the face of this earth whose present is not midnight to her splendid past. The past is the great ocean of government, science, and literature, whilst the present boasts civilization and progress are but those smaller streams, which owe their very existence to the greatness and the splendor of the past.

Honor is a God-given principle, without which individuals, States, and nations would act more like the crawfish than they do. We never think of that backward moving fish without associating it with what our present age is pleased to call progress. Those great principles discovered by master minds of the past, which led directly to the knowledge of our present age, must have remained hidden for want of such splendid lights. Why even infidelity, skepticism, and other amusing follies and errors put up a much better showing than. We should be more careful and thoughtful when we look for mistakes among the productions of the past, and also suspect our "lesser lights" the more, when we compare them with our greater. A greater one than man separated church and state when he said: "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things which are God's." Human justice (we cannot see the hearts of men) is all that can be claimed by Caesar; and no better right and title has Caesar to any law than he has to that of "trial by battle."

Sumter News.

[Sumter Advertiser.]

It is rumored that the marriage bells will ring in Sumter several times between now and Christmas tide.

Phil Ford, who lives about six miles from Sumter, had the neck of his ox broken on the 18th instant, while it was to a stake grazing. When found the animal's horns were stuck in the ground, it must have been frightened and turned on his horns, breaking his neck.

We hear very loud complaints about the enormous increase in city taxes this year. Of course the special levy of two mills for school purposes is readily understood, but the people are at a loss to understand why the general levy is so much higher than heretofore, and would like to have the matter explained. Our city government is now a pretty costly luxury, the taxes being eight mills. It is easy enough to vote money for any purpose, but paying it is a very different matter.
